1st Course Description / Description du 1<sup>er</sup> cours: This course introduces architectural design through a series of short studies regarding "place" that provide opportunities to develop basic design skills, including free-hand drawing, site analysis, and modeling. The theme of "place" is explored at a variety of scales, beginning with the geology of Sudbury, its foundations as a rail town, and its mining history as sources for design exercises. (exp 10.5) cr 6.

2nd Course Description / Description du 2<sup>e</sup> cours : Ce cours est une initiation à la conception architecturale. Il repose sur une série de courtes études sur le lieu, notamment du dessin à main libre, l'analyse du lieu et la modélisation, qui permettent d'acquérir des compétences fondamentales en conception. Les exercices de conception explorent le thème du lieu à diverses échelles, en commençant par la géologie de Sudbury, ses origines de ville ferroviaire et son histoire minière. (10,5 h) 6 cr.

This follows extensive experience in group work and collaboration with other students and communities. Thesis Studio 1 is where students develop a research hypothesis and test it through the cyclical and iterative actions of thinking and making. Written research and design research are encouraged to reinforce each other rather than to be viewed in a linear sequence. Students are expected to select their Thesis Committee during this course.
